

Vox Puellarum
1972

Westlake School

*Now I see the secret of making the best persons. It is to grow in the open air
and to eat and sleep with the earth*

We are separate stars within a mutual night against the encompassing darkness, let us together light our candles.

Halfway Down

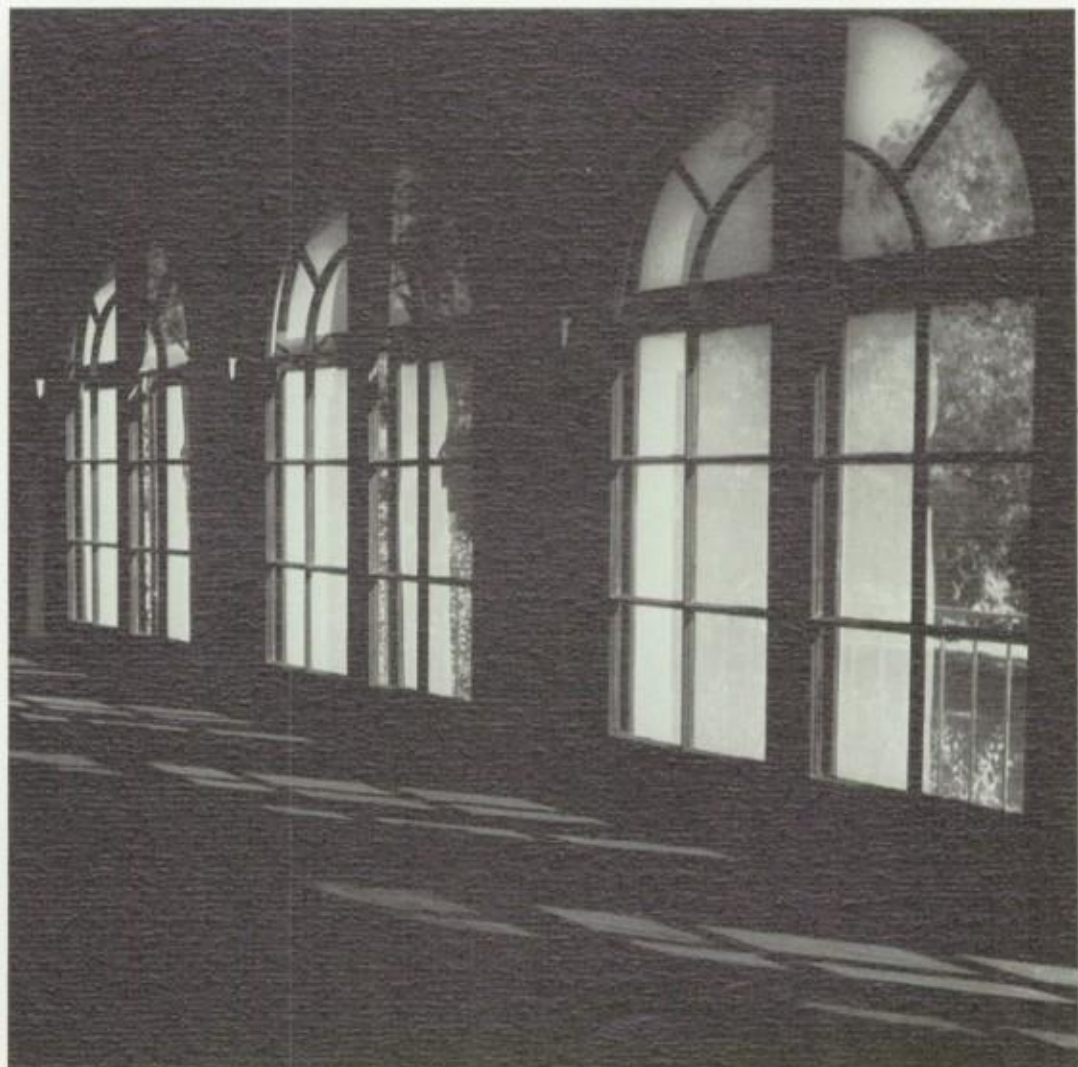

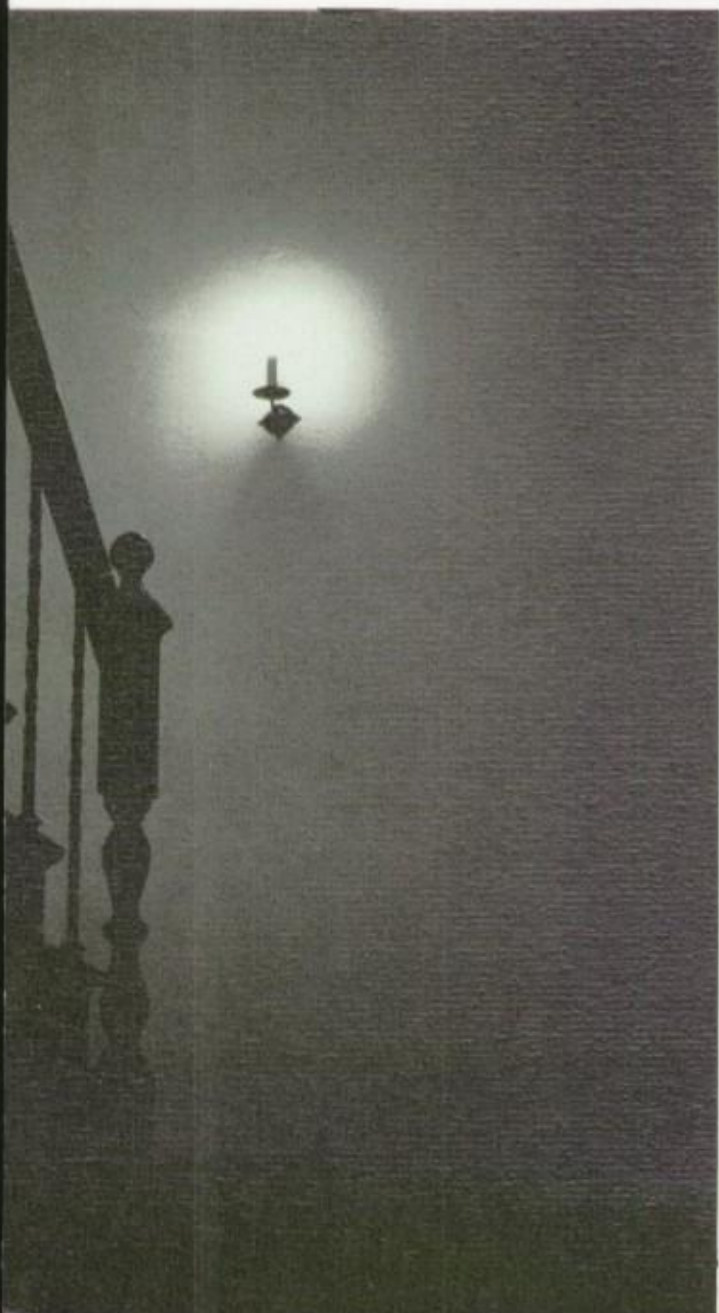

*Halfway down the stairs
Is a stair
Where I sit.
There isn't any
Other stair
Quite like
It.
I'm not at the bottom,
I'm not at the top,
So this is the stair
Where
I always
Stop.
Halfway up the stairs
Isn't up
And isn't down.
It isn't in the nursery,
It isn't in the town.
And all sorts of funny thoughts
Run round my head:
"It isn't really
Anywhere!
It's somewhere else
Instead!"*

A.A. Milne

*Within you
there is a stillness and sanctuary
to which you can retreat at any time and be yourself*

Hermann Hesse

*I'm looking at myself
Reflections of my mind...*

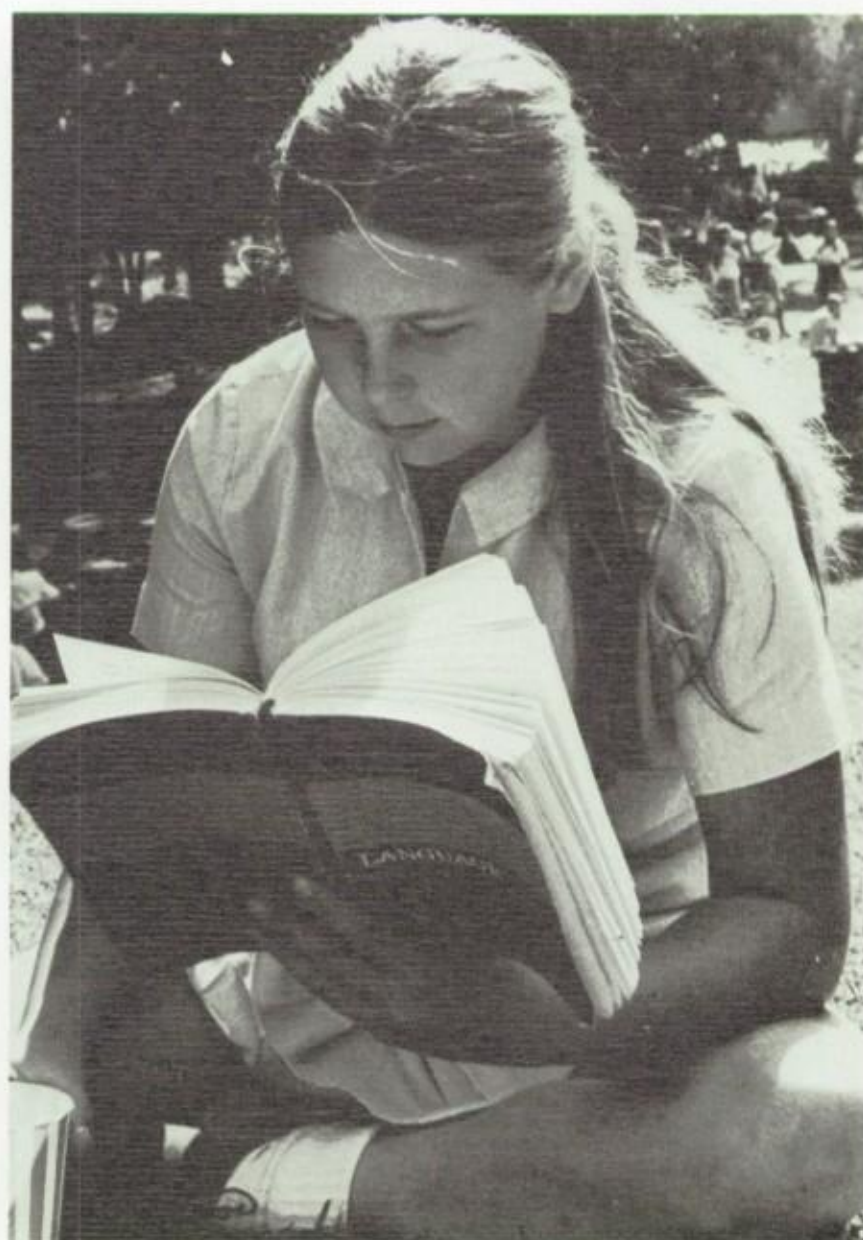

*It's just the kind of day
To leave myself behind.*

Parable

*I read how Quixote in his random ride
Came to a crossing once, and lest he lose
The purity of chance, would not decide*

*Whither to fare, but wished his horse to choose.
For glory lay wherever he might turn.
His head was light with pride, his horse's shoes*

Were heavy, and he headed for the barn.

I've gone through a lot to get where I am.
I've experienced a tremendous amount of hate.
But this can't compare to the wonderful love
I've so recently found.
I've made many good acquaintances, a few good friends.
And I'm happy - I'll always be happy.
I'll always love, I'll always be loved.
Before I ask for anything more - thank you for what I have:
TIC - There comes a time when no one will understand you but yourself.
Carol and Stephanie - true friends are never apart - they have each other's love in their hearts.
Kim - no matter who you meet, always be your beautiful self.
Betsy and Terrie - 10th grade - I am Randy Davis' sister.
Beth - You gave me the biggest gift you own - yourself.
Cherry, Lindy, Blanche, Anne Lise - Thanks for loving me.
Jesus - Bless Mother and Daddy. Let them know your love.
Doug - once you've found love you want to pass it on.

Freaky Foursome, Braces forever; I'm the typical teenager, Froggy; Magic Mountain and Disneyland. A seven o'clock walk with N.R. Horses are for riding, not falling off! Marty, we'll get it together. Does the name Rubby Bagonia ring a bell? Then does Joyful Jolly? Cyndi tell P.C. to make some friends, Babbling Brooke and Herman da Bear. I know him from somewhere. S.R. popcorn, barbecue chips and dirty blue jeans are not my type of fun. P.M. we'll catch Randy together. Senior Retreat 11:00 pm innertubing. Maybe I can center that clay. My last bit of advice to you all. When falling from jumping horses get out of their way. A broken pelvis is not fun. Are you decent? If I had wings no one would ask me should I fly
The bird sings, no one asks why.
I can see in myself wings as I feel them
If you see something else
keep your thoughts to yourself
I'll fly free then.

Have you ever tried really reaching out for the other side?

We sang and cracked the sky with our laughter
Our breath turned to mist in the cold
Our years together counted 30
But our eyes told the dark that we were old
And whose gonna be the one
To say it was no good what we done
I dare a man to say I'am too young
For I'am gonna TRY FOR THE SUN

MY FRIEND

I know a friend
Whose nose flares high,
Her cheeks as red as can be.
She'll grin,
Perhaps a beauty contest win!
But still my friend she'll be.
She has dimples, freckles,
And fat, plumpy cheeks.
She's short and pudgy, you see,

She has broken front teeth,
And smiles so sweet, but-

My friend she'll always be!

FRIENDS

My friends are fun
They are like daisies,
Happy and free.
They are rosy like the sun.

Another friend is Crissy my doll.
Playing with her
Makes my sadness fall.

If I had my way,
There would be a day
When dolls come alive
From seven to five.

Each of you is a gift in her own special way, with a smile, with a frown, and a jovial "Hello!" You made many of my days spark with glow.

It's been a pleasure the whole year through to work together while you grew.

OUR TRIP TO SAN DIEGO Fourth Grade

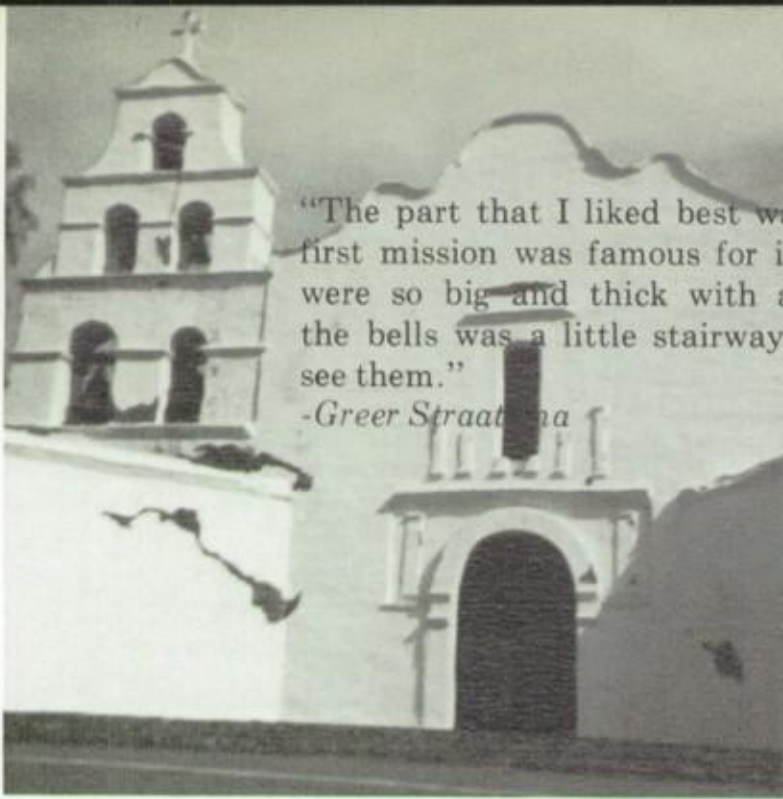

"On February 8th my class and I went on a trip to San Diego. We went because we wanted to understand more about our history and geography. We went by plane. On the plane trip we saw Catalina Island. When we were near San Diego I looked down. The land seemed like a puzzle piece."-Leslie Metzler

"The ride going was not bumpy. After a short flight we arrived at San Diego. The Grey Line bus at the airport was waiting for us. We got on the bus which took us to the San Diego Mission which was founded July 16, 1769, by Father Serra. We walked through the entrance and saw some mosaics on the wall. Then we went to the garden where we saw Indian burial grounds and some statues."-Rhoda

Lipshutz

"In the mission there was a gift shop where the fathers used to get ready for Sunday prayer. We went through the gift shop and saw statues of the Indians and a shelter made out of reeds."-Margo

"The part that I liked best was the five bells. The first mission was famous for its bells because they were so big and thick with a deep gong. Behind the bells was a little stairway that you took up to see them."

-Greer Straatman

"Then we went around a corner and saw a garden full of trees. It had paths and a wishing well. We thought that if we threw pennies into it our wish would come true. So we did."

-Lori Tucker

"There we saw the cross that Father Serra held in his hand when he died. In the middle of the museum there was a large stagecoach. It is important because it was the first mailing stagecoach to ride from Santa Barbara to San Diego. We also saw the statue of Father Serra. It looked pretty where it was."

-Margo Lana

"After we finished looking at the mission, we saw Old Town. In Old Town we ate lunch and went to a candle shop. In the candle shop we saw lots of different candles and lots of pots outside. Our next stop was at Father Serra's Museum. There on the hill we saw a view of San Diego."

-Laura Cutler

"After that we went to Cabrillo's statue. The statue was built in his honor. It was very big. Then we saw a movie about the gray whale. The path of a whale is very interesting. For a while he goes straight and then he goes in a zig-zag path."

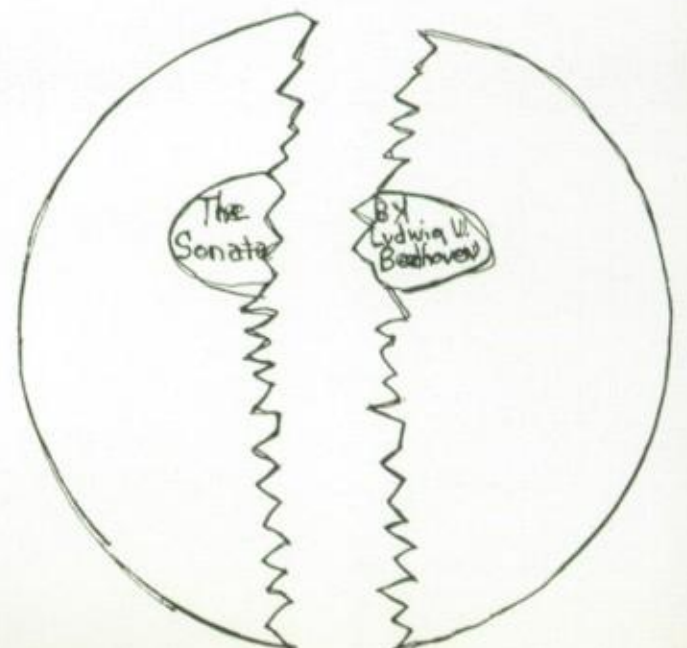

-Leslie Metzler

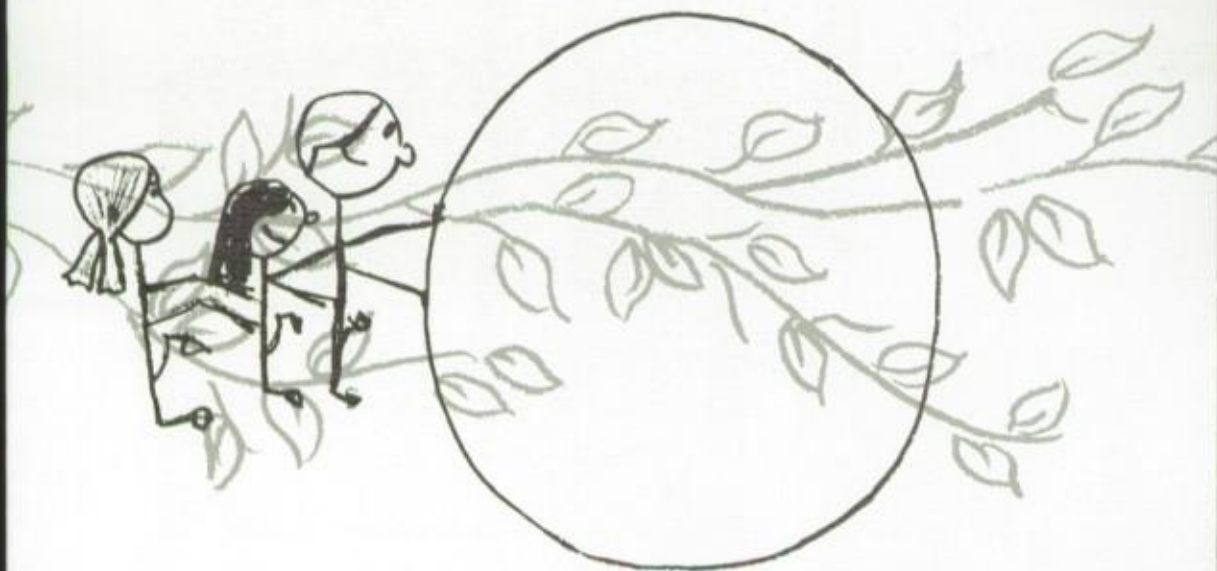

"Going back on the plane we saw a group of whales spouting. It was exciting. We had a good time on our field trip."

-Lori Tucker

HALLOWEEN NIGHT

The ghosts howl "Boooo."
The goblins eat stew,
Witches shriek

HALLOWEEN

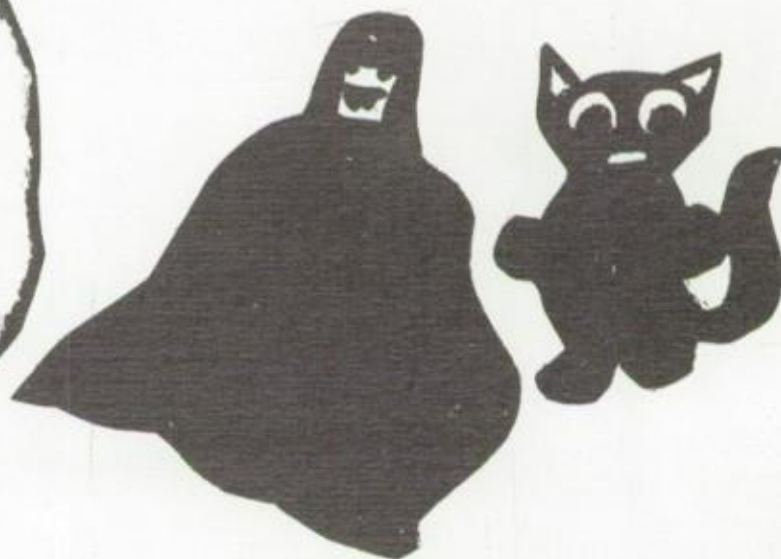

The moon beams
Witches scream,

Cats Stare
Pumpkins glare,

Dracula fights
Frankenstein frights,

All of this for
Halloween night.

Myra Kunin, Grade 4

HALLOWEEN

On Halloween the goblins come out,
And big orange pumpkins jump all about,
Ghosts and witches all start to fly,
And trick or treaters all come by.

There is a witch,
And she has a cat,
And the cat has a pumpkin,
And the pumpkin has a bat.

There's a bloody spirit,
And a spooky ghost,
Dracula was there,
Because he was our host!

Lisa Blinderman, Grade 5

HALLOWEEN

Ghosts and ghouls flying around in the air,
They clank the chains and squeak the chair,
Witches make their magic brew,
Stirring and stirring the gruesome stew.
Goblins shake their snaky rattles
Skeletons and vampires having battles
Pumpkins' lights make eyes dazzle
Children eating tasty Razzles.

Karen McBride, Grade 4

SURPRISE ON HALLOWEEN

All is dark when the cats start to roam,
The children are out skipping among the streets so gay,
Running up to the houses to ring the doorbell and say,
"Trick or Treat!"

The pumpkins glow and almost start to soar
Through the pitch black skies.

Suddenly the cats and children,
And every creature on the street, run as fast as they can Because one hand and a chicken bone come walking down the street.

And up above in the sky
A funny voice says "Finger lickin' good!"

Greer Straatsma, Grade 4

HALLOWEEN NIGHT

On the street on Halloween night
You see pumpkins lurk into sight,
Witches flying around in the sky
Why, why do they fly?

Goblins gulp the dead things down
Stuffing themselves till they fall to the ground!

Ghastly, ghastly all night through
Vampires suck the blood from you!

At what you see you'd better beware
Or you will get a hideous scare.
Run, run, run and hide,
Open the door and vanish inside.

Corinne Pincus

On October 28, The Lower School went to see the replica of Independence Hall at Knotts' Berry Farm. Our tour guide told us that the Liberty Bell was rung for the first time on July 8, 1776.

Clare Reynolds VI

As I approached Independence Hall, I felt as if I actually was in Philadelphia, where the real Independence Hall is. Even the Liberty Bell had the exact crack as the original one.

Nancy Nahin VI

As I walked through Independence Hall, I thought about all that our forefathers had to go through in order for us to have the Bill of Rights and the Constitution that I saw on display. I thought about the war we had fought with The British so we could be free and independent. Also that many men had died so we could be free.

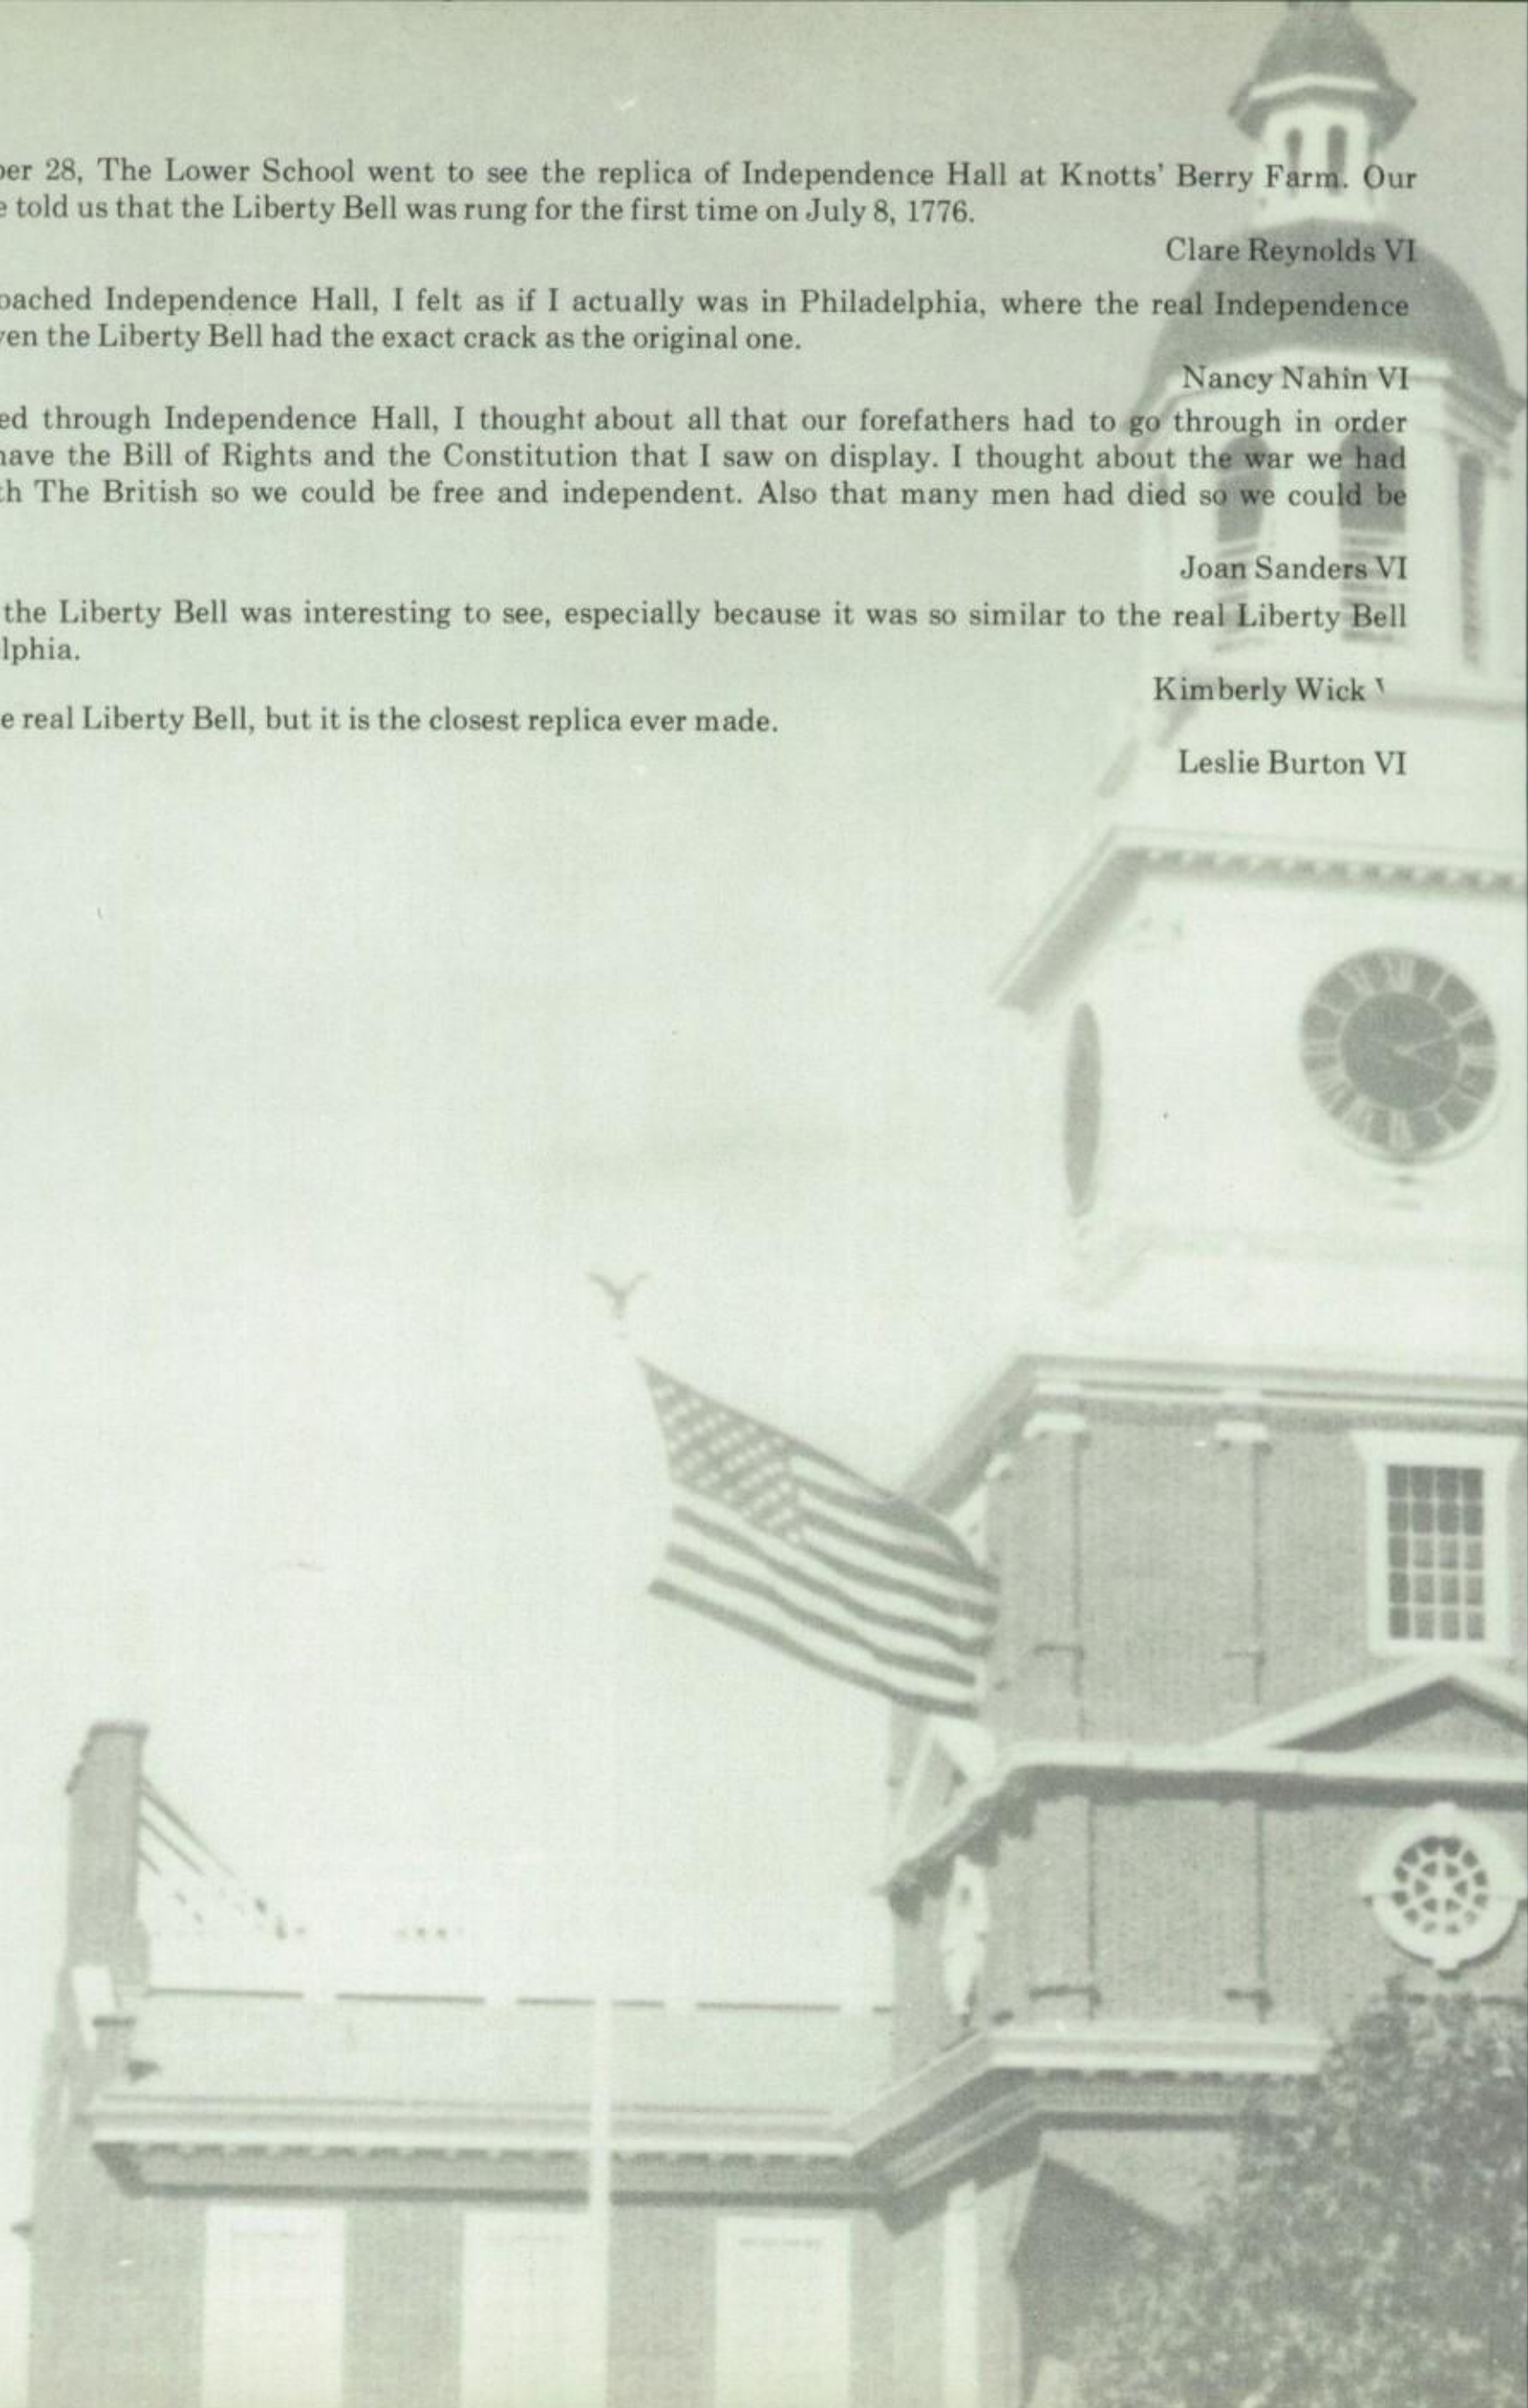

Joan Sanders VI

I thought the Liberty Bell was interesting to see, especially because it was so similar to the real Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Kimberly Wick V

It is not the real Liberty Bell, but it is the closest replica ever made.

Leslie Burton VI

We went into a large room with many tables. The curtains were drawn and the room was very neat. Then the lights went off and the candles on the tables were lit. We could not see anyone, but we heard many people talking. These voices represented our forefathers. We heard many speeches. It was very interesting.

Cindy Hayes VI

All the curtains were drawn and thirteen tables were set out for the representatives from the thirteen states. We were then told by our guide to pretend that we were living in the past. The lights went down low, and even though you could see no one, you felt their presence by hearing their voices discussing, arguing, and debating the issues.

Cindy Wheelon VI

Although the room was dark and there were no people to see, you could hear the voices of our great forefathers.

Tracy Bramnick VI

They turned off the lights and you immediately felt as if time went back and you were a part of this great historical meeting.

Gretchen Werner VI

I could almost hear the men walk around the room and in the background hear the thunder and lightening which seemed to pick up the boom of the cannons being fired.

Suzanne Keith VI

You could hear voices, cannons, foot-steps, paper rustling, and bells ringing. It was so real that I thought I was really there.

Jeannie Cooke VI

The arguments and discussions were so real and true to life. I was reliving my country's history.

Jennifer Boska VI

When we left the room where the Declaration of Independence was signed, we were taken to a room where Mr. Knott keeps all his old letters and books. The showcases had many old documents.

Lizann Gay VI

My reaction to the Independence Hall at Knotts' Berry Farm was both proud and sad. Proud that our country was started by men of such great principles and courage. Sad that very few people care for the great principles these men were willing to risk their lives for.

Alisen Thomas VI

Visiting Independence Hall brought my thoughts back to the valient men who exhausted themselves fighting through frigid or torrid weather just to earn freedom for our country. Though Great Britian's army was immense, our minute army refused to give up because it wanted liberty, freedom and justice so much.

Linda McBride VI

I think everything about Independence Hall stands for freedom - The Liberty Bell; the room where the constitution of the United States was signed.

Tami Taecker VI

I enjoyed looking in the showcases and seeing the orignal documents.

Jackie Tan VI

Since fifth grade I have loved the history of our country. I thought the dramatization of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was most interesting.

Julia Poppen VI

The room where we relived the signing of the Declaration of Independence was a moving experience for me.

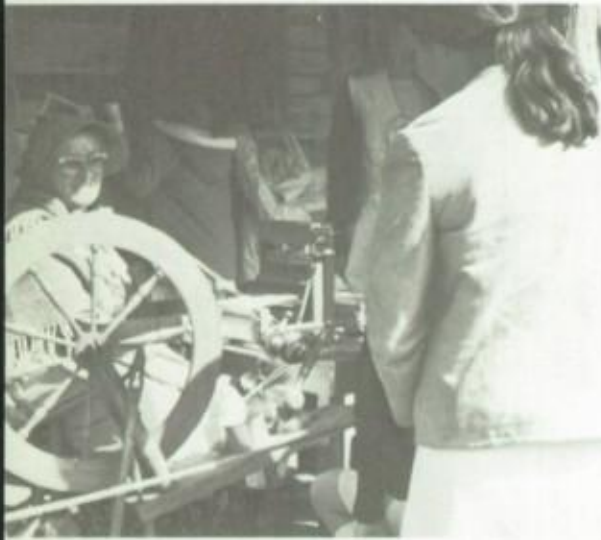

Sheri Lesser VI

I think that everyone should go visit Independence Hall once in their lifetime.

Paulette Bartlett VI

I don't think that I will ever forget listening to so many historic people and going back so far into history in such a short time.

Peggy Douglas VI

We met Aunt Hattie at Knott's Berry Farm during our visit to Ghost Town. She was sitting in a little chair with two spinning wheels. The spinning wheels were almost 200 years old. Aunt Hattie was from Tennessee. Aunt Hattie was fun to watch and listen to.

Then we saw a blacksmith and his anvil. He took a metal rod and stuck it in the fire, and bent it to the shape of a horseshoe. He shaped it with a hammer.

We saw a funny old man named "Fiddeling Charlie," he played a fiddle and we sang to the music.

Rhonda Lipshutz IV

When our guide took us to "Aunt Hattie" she showed us how they made wool and thread a long time ago. Then the guide showed us how the donkeys wouldn't crush the orebearing rock.

Karen McBride IV

"Fiddling Charlie" was a fiddler he asked us to sing, "Working on the Railroad," and "Swing Your Partner."

A BOOK FRIEND

I feel that I'm a book sitting on a shelf.
No one will ever open me

my title tells my name,

I'm sometimes kind of corny
but never really dull,
I'll always keep you company
so depend on me as a friend.

It's cold and everyone has blownup red noses that light up the room.

*Cynthia Ogle

"Our Christmas tree today is a bare looking green tree with a point on the top," said the little girl with dull eyes. "What was your tree like when you were a child, grandpa?"

It was big with long shining strands of tinsel. It had angels in glass balls with shining eyes and long tresses," answered the old gray grandfather with a muffler strangling his neck. "I remember my favorite gift. It was a shiny red gold and silver train with a real engine with spokes on the gears to hook on with."

"The Christmas tree, what was it like?" asked the little girl again impatiently.

"Oh, I can just see it now, grinding so fast it looked like lightning," daydreamed the grandfather.

A CHRISTMAS BOX

One Christmas morning I woke up to the sound of grown-ups talking, of a low-burning fire crackling, the whistle of a tea pot boiling and the shuffling of last-minute gifts being wrapped. I quietly got out of bed and crept into the sitting room to see only adults sitting around a pine smelling Christmas tree and a magnificent box.

The box was cherry red and sunshine yellow with a Martian green bow ribbon. Gigantic in size, I stared at it and ran to it in my snow soft pajamas. Inside the box was a teddy bear that looked like a brown snowman with floppy ears, that looked warm and soft. That was a very nice Christmas.

*Kathleen Davis

ST. NICK

On Christmas eve, after all the children had been tumbled off to bed, the "King of Christmas-time" appeared. The chomping, clomping, reindeers hooves and the crunch of Santa's boots on the soft fluffy, crusty snow was the beginning of Christmas morning.

Santa made the house tremble and jumble and very nearly crumble as he came down the chimney. He filled the limp lifeless stockings, and then began to lay his presents on the floor. That brought the whole room to life.

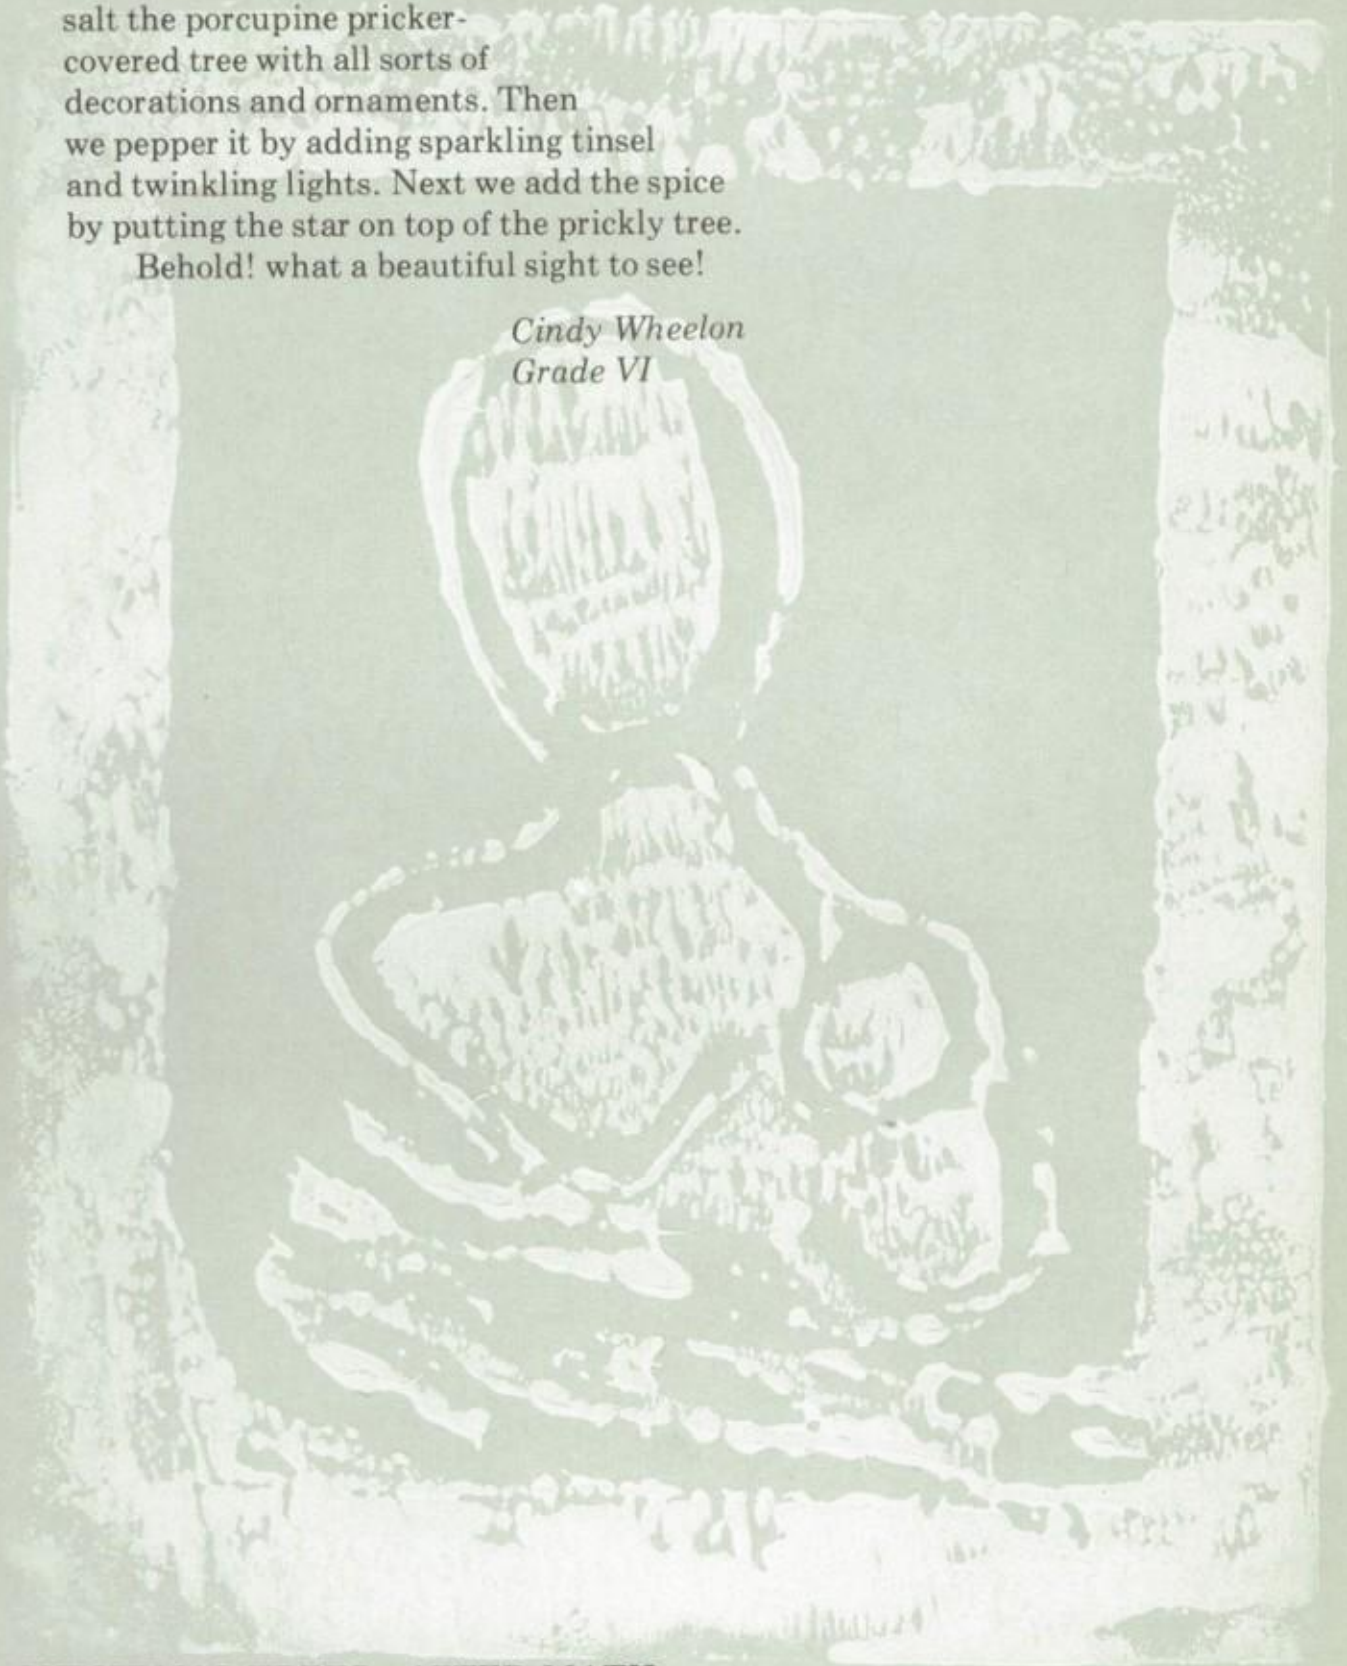

As Santa huffed, and puffed back up the chimney the quiet dawn began. Before anyone awoke the soft clicking sound of the reindeers' hooves were long gone.

Behold! what a beautiful sight to see!

CHRISTMAS TREES—AFTER MATH

After Christmas the prickling-smelling pine is thrown in the dead smelling trash can. After days or weeks in the Christmas scent of drifting warmth, it is thrown out into the cold, blue, slippery world of the outdoors.

No more pulsing presents under it, but it will be used again in a popping bird-of-paradise fire.

Spring is here
Many holidays,
February's cheer.

Many showers,
Peeping flowers,

Only twenty-eight days.

A river is splashy,
A river is sparkly,
I wish I knew what was at the bottom?

Are there pink fish?
Will I ever know?

How mysterious a river is!

I SAW A FLOWER DIE

I saw a flower die
Because nobody cared.
Everyone trampled on it.
But I was there, and I did care, so I tried
To save its life.
You would care, too
If you were there.
I did not stamp or Step on it. I just
Picked up its stem
And made it lie quiet-
Then I buried it.
There was no sound.

A RIVER

Drop a pebble into the water,
See! How it spreads out.
It forms many circles,
The circles grow larger.

Look closely
See yourself in the water.
Is it a happy you, or
Is it a sad you?

Smile into it, and
It will smile back at you.

Butterflies flutter about
Pretty and sweet

They're always, yes, always around.

GRASS

Have you ever looked at grass closely? Grass is something that covers the world's surface. It's green, soft, short or tall; springy bouncy, and nice to feel; it is something that ants march through; it is a ground cover. It is something that feeds the cows and best of all, it makes the world a beautiful place to live in.

There was a king.

Me, Myself and I

If I weren't me
I'd rather be
A kitten cozy

My hair I'd comb
I'd get some food
And then I'd roam.

But since I'm
Me, myself and I
I cannot be a cat

So I'll just have to Live with me-
And maybe I'll be a cat.
Just wait and see!

PENCILS . . .

Have you really taken a good look at your pencil lately? How many chewing marks does it have? Mine has ten. Is this the way to treat our pencils? My goodness, no! The poor things, look how much they suffer. They slave day and night in all sorts of subjects and you say you did your homework last night without any help! I bet that the reason our pencils have a hard time standing up by the end of the day is because they've been bitten, squeezed to death, and slammed down on the desk so hard.

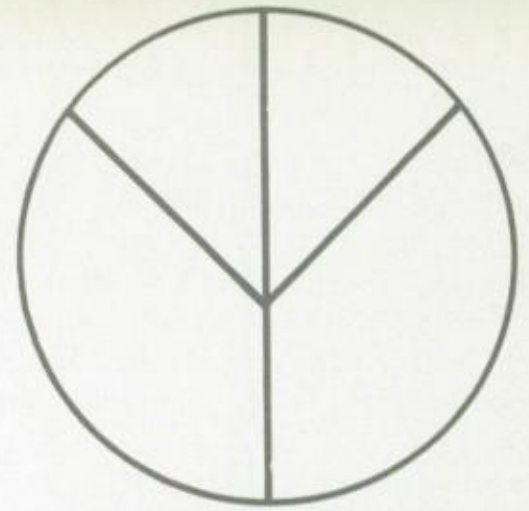

Have you ever thought of how much work a pencil does for you? There wouldn't be homework, books, letters, or drawings without them. Remember, pencils do the work, so stop taking them for granted.

A RIVER - AS I SEE IT

One day I came upon a river, a glinting, sparkling river. There it was, dancing before me, clear as glass. Fish were darting in and out of the water. It was a gurgling river and as I crossed over the bridge, the shimmering water called to me. I sat down to put my feet into the cool, inviting water. I hated to leave my new chuckling friend, but I will never forget that day.

There is a little river,
It's as calm and clear as can be.

And in the sunlight
It casts a shadow over you.

JEREMIAH AND THE RIVER

Jeremiah was a cute little field mouse. He had never seen a river before. In fact, he had only seen the water he drank. One day Jeremiah got lost and wandered aimlessly right into a tremendous river. He was shocked! This sinuous, full-fed river was one hundred times his size. This beautiful, slimy animal went crawling and bubbling along. He touched the fast current. It sparkled and laughed with him.

Jeremiah looked around. He was in a fantasy world. The trees swayed and a giant leaf fell into the water and floated along the river side. The field mouse jumped and found himself riding the giant leaf as if he were astride a pony. He went bouncing and bouncing down the river.

The river became angry and started to gallop away. Jeremiah jumped off just as the pony crashed into a rock. Jeremiah felt relieved that he had jumped at this point. He decided to go home. However, every day after this adventure, he returned to the river and rode another pony.

RAINDROPS

Raindrops patter,

They wash out the grass,

and even restore.
Rain frightens

Spring Songs

No. 1

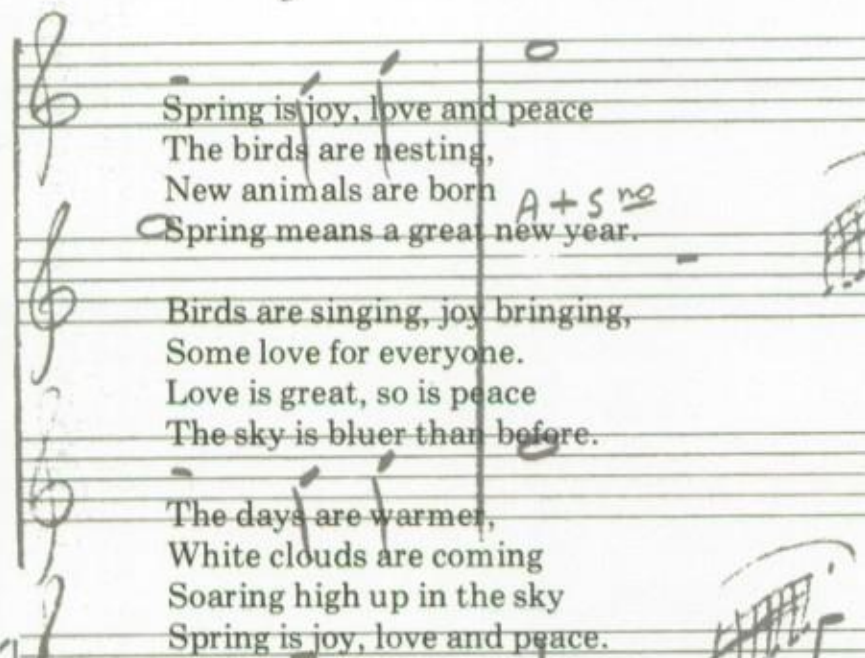

Michael Cave

It is a spring morn,
Animals are being born.
Birds are singing,
Bells are ringing.

Grass is growing
Rivers are flowing
Waterfalls are falling
Spreading misty sprays.

Animals are frolicking
To greet this wonderful day.

Spring is joy, love and peace
The birds are nesting,
New animals are born
Spring means a great new year.

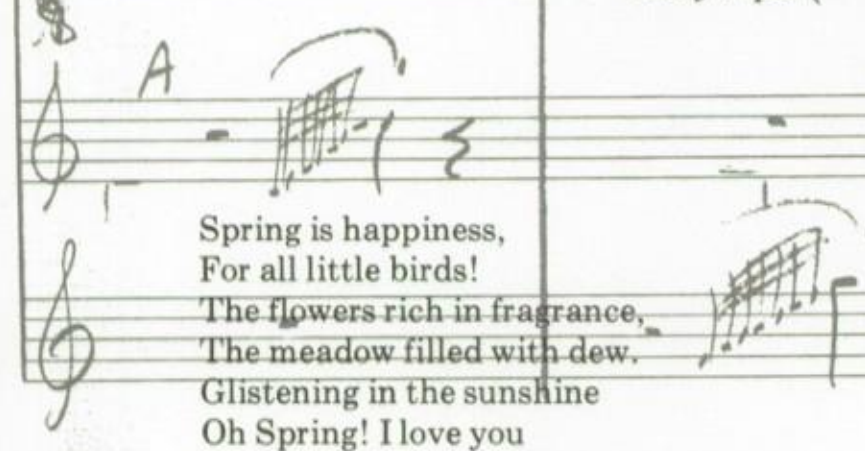

Birds are singing, joy bringing,
Some love for everyone.
Love is great, so is peace
The sky is bluer than before.

The days are warmer,
White clouds are coming
Soaring high up in the sky
Spring is joy, love and peace.

Flowers budding
Rainbows glowing
Dew lying
Sunbeams dancing

Grass growing
Wind blowing,
Sun smiling,
Spring!

Kelly Piper

Spring is happiness,
For all little birds!
The flowers rich in fragrance,
The meadow filled with dew.
Glistening in the sunshine
Oh Spring! I love you

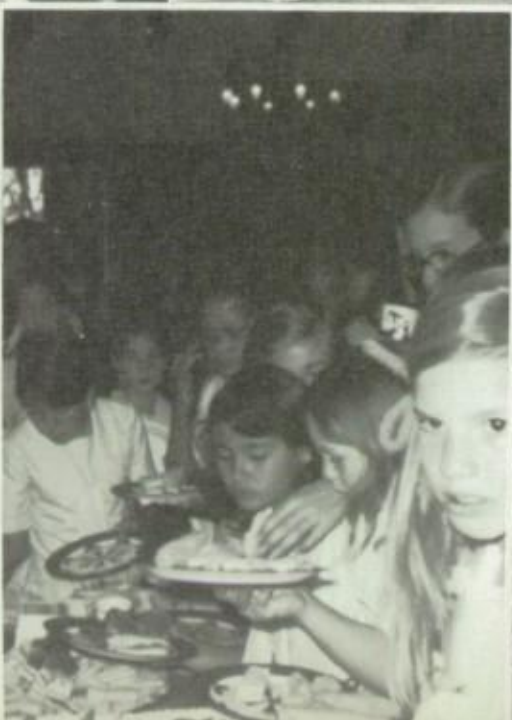

Grass growing
Wind blowing,
Sun smiling,
Spring!

Dede de Graeve

Warm winds on my face,
Cool grass at my feet.
Butterflies emerging out of cocoons,
Forest animals at play.
Spring warmth fills the air!
